Mr. Neil Palmer

Chief Executive Officer for Per AQUUM. Former Senior Vice President Operations for Starwood Asia Pacific

"I first had the pleasure of working with Drew when I was Senior Vice President Operations for Starwood Asia Pacific. At the time Drew was based in Fiji working on the premium luxury Laucala Island Resort project. We contracted Drew at the time (2008) as Landscape Architect for the extensive renovation project of the Sheraton Fiji Resort. Drew was responsible for design and management of the entire landscape project scope which included an extensive lagoon swimming pool facility and complete redesign and installation of new gardens throughout the resort. Drew delivered the project on time, on budget and with spectacular results. Now as CEO for Per AQUUM, we are working with Drew to deliver unique luxury landscape design concepts for our premium luxury resorts in the Maldives and Abu Dhabi.

Drew and his company Topo Design Studio have proven to be a willing and invaluable partner and I would not hesitate in recommending them to any potential developer "

Mr. Erhard Hotter

CEO of Hotel Operations for Canvas Developments

Former Area Managing Director for Starwood Hotels & Resorts in Indonesia and Managing Director of Indo Pacific Sheraton

"I do not want to miss the opportunity to say THANK YOU for being firstly in the design stages so involved and in particular, so attentive during the construction. You have been very engaged and guided the contractors to ensure timely completion and that they follow the design intent.

I just inspected the Water features at the front of the hotel and must say that the waters together with the fibre optic lights are dancing in great delight. We received several good comments from guests about the landscaping and all is a credit to you and your team since you not only have been most particular with the design but also very engaged during the construction process guiding the contractor to ensure the design intent is followed."

Topo's Director and Owner, Drew Anderson, has over 21 years of international experience in landscape construction, resort design and project management. During this period, Drew has obtained broad professional experience in a range of project types for both public and private clients.

With exposure to luxury resort and hotel design, large scale residential, commercial and masterplanning projects, Drew is confident in all stages of design from Concept through to Design Development, Documentation, and Construction Administration.

Drew brings experience in the delivery of built works through his attention to detail and practical knowledge of materials and construction methods. His passion for travel and design adaptability has led him and the Topo team through diverse cities to the most remote corners of the globe.

Drew has first hand knowledge and experience in 5-, 6and 7-star resort projects in both design and construction. Having studied Civil Engineering and Construction Project Management along with Landscape Architecture, Drew leads Topo in effectively delivering projects on time and on budget with efficient management of both the design and construction process.

Topo's proven and growing record of successfully delivered resort projects and happy clients attests to Drew's passion and drive for landscape architecture and design.

Director, Drew Anderson's Experience

James joined Topo Design Studio having gained experience in some globally renowned hospitality design studios in Singapore following his design education in the UK.

James's 9 years experience in Asia have spanned Masterplanning, Architecture, Landscape and Interior Design across predominantly Hospitality projects, with additional exposure to Retail, Residential and Commercial ventures. He has led large multi-disciplinary teams on sizeable projects in both design and project management roles, while also tackling more intimate guest experiences, right down to the scale of individual guestroom design and standalone restaurants.

Projects in Singapore, Malaysia, Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Korea, Nepal, Sri Lanka, China, Indonesia, The Maldives, The United States and The United Kingdom have provided not only a wealth of geographical and climate-related diversity, but also an appreciation of various ever-evolving cultural design drivers.

James leans on his wide variety of experiences to specialise in drawing together various competing design parameters and threads into seamless design narratives and solutions for Topo's clients.

Sirinan is a talented designer with a great passion for designing hospitality settings and brings with her more than 8 years experience as a landscape architect.

Her past work has included concept designs through to detail construction documentation for a wide range of hospitality and residential projects. Originally from Thailand, her past experience has been strongly focused on Southeast Asia, China, Maldives, and the Indian sub continent projects.

With her experience and qualifications in Urban and Environmental Planning, Sirinan is equally comfortable at working in large scale urban landscapes, or intimate garden settings. In developing design solutions for urban or resort projects, she ensures that the concept complements local cultures, and provides a enriched experience for guests and residents.

Sirinan is currently involved in a range of Topo's projects, working closely with all members of the team to progress the design concepts and themes as well as detailed documentation and bespoke product design.

Ms. Dyah Kurnia has recently joined TOPO DESIGN STUDIO in Singapore. She graduated from the Architecture department at Gadjah Mada University, Indonesia in 2009, with commendable qualifications.

Dyah has already gained experience in a wide variety of scales across landscape design and masterplanning developments through to architectural design, and in turn across multiple sectors including educational facilities, medical facilities, public realm, resorts, hotels, private residences (villa) and residential communities.

Her knowledge spans building structures, architectural detailing and design visualization both in 2d and 3d. Possessing an obvious passion for creative work and design capability to solve complex designs problems has proven a great advantage and positive contribution to her career thus far.

With her strong architectural base of experience gained over the last 7 years, Dyah is now focused on conceptualizing, enhancing and detailing sustainable projects to make a positive impact on communities, the economy, and the environment.

Ken joined Topo in 2009, bringing with him a range of project skills in site management, horticulture and environmentally sustainable design.

Ken has extensive experience in the hotel and resort industry, with past roles maintaining resort landscapes, running large work crews and implementing agricultural and sustainable design practices. His approach sees him heavily involved both during the research and design process as well as into in the field during contstruction of Topo's projects.

Most recently, Ken has been extensively involved in the implementation of Topo's landscape design works in the Maldives, ensuring efficient construction of designs, setting up plant nurseries, training landscape crews and developing best-practice ongoing maintenance techniques.

His development of the Hydroponic system at Niyama Maldives is one of the largest and most successful in the Maldives.

Currently based in Australia, Ken consults on a range of Topo's projects around the world.
